OMAHA MAN HEADS CHICAGO COLLEGE

Rev. John B. Furay Elected President of Loyala University, Big Jesuit School.

IS A GRADUATE OF CREIGHTON

An Omaha man has just been made president of Loyola university, Chi-Creighton university.

He is a son of Mrs, Catherine Furay of the county judge's office; Guy V. Furay, sales manager for the Foye Lumber company, and Miss Mary Furay.

Charles Furay declared that his brother is the brightest man he ever

The Induction Ceremony. At the induction ceremony only a few friends were present. Father Furay's appointment from the general of the Jesuit order, Very Rev. Vladimir Ledechowski of Rome, was read. The new president declared it would be the object of the board of trustees to develop and strengthen existing department of the university rather than to add new ones. His predecessor at Loyola was Rev. John L. Mathery, who has gone to St. Louis to direct the large training school in which Jesuit professors are prepared college and university

ROLLER COASTER AT KRUG PARK FURNISHES THRILLS

One of the most popular of the many forms of riensure to be found at Krug park is in riding the giant coaster. The coaster, conceded to be the most pleasureful of all rides, gains its popularity through the fact that it furnishes three distinct thrills in the ride which requires sixty-two seconds to cover a distance of an exciting nature and is greatly exhilarating. The coaster is closely contested for the popularity honors by the a crusbination of a carrousel and a circle swing and in riding the frolic one encounters a new form of locomo-tion, the big baskets traveling in a circle swinging inwardly and outwardly at the same time. The annual basket picnic, which is an occasion for much com ment and an item of interest to hundreds of families, bus been arranged to take place Labor day. The management has made adequate arrangements to accommodate all with tables and chairs that annually attend this feast of pleasure.

At the Theaters

The story of the play is direct and simple. Eliza Doolittle, a pathetic drab figure of the London streets, a type that Dickens oved to immortalize, is discovered by a of acientific temperament. "Pygmalion," the sculpture, moulded "Galatea," Henry Higgins, author of 'Higgins Universal Alphabet" moulds the ockney flower girl, Eliza Doclittle to the manners, graces and outward appearances of a duchess. He succeeds completely. It doing so, however, he ignores the fact that he has awakened in her-a soul. She falls in love with him and the whole appeal of the play is the story of her romance. Having totally neglected the possibility of this romance when the truth it finally dawns upon Henry Higgins, Mr. Shaw reaches his own coaclusions of this situation with a brilliant and touching end to his play.

"The Bachelor's Baby," a delightful comedy in which Francis Wilson appeared at the Brandels theater a few years ago, will be the offering by the Edward Lonch Players for the week beginning tonight and the eleventh week of their engagement at the Brandels.

The story concerns a young but crusty bachelor, who looks upon children as a necessary evil, but one with which he will never be concerned, for he believes that the coming of a child forces a man into a secondary position in his own household. This unusual view is, at the time of the opening of the play, a bar to his marriage with the girl of his choice. Just about this time the bacheor receives the sad news that his twin brother has been lost in a shipwreck, and even worse calamity, that he has been named in the will as guardian of his niece, a little girl of five. On the child's arrival at his home, the bachelor runs away, but is eventually induced tender scene, enlivened by many humorous incidents, ensues. About the time that the bachelor has capitulated, heart and soul, it becomes necessary for him to give up the child and for a time he Eligibility to School sive her up and things are finally brought fights to keep her, but finally agrees to to a happy ending.

> The finishing touches have been applied to the numerous improvements in-stalled, and to the thorough renovation to which the Orpheum was subjected during the last three months. The cozy and popular playhouse is an spic and span as a dandy and is clean and wholesome for the season's opening today, when matines and night performances will be given. "Vaudeville, better than ever," is promised and admittedly that which the Orpheum vouches for is convincing to the local theater-goer. The regular first-nighters are reported to have already registered more than the quorum necessary to guarantee initial capacity attendance and the enlistment of the fashionable's orders for "Society Night," Monday, is of such proportions that a waiting list for unclaimed reservations will be registered.

Two headline features are exploited. one of these stellar offerings being James C. Morton and Frank F. Moore, the other Madame Besson and her com-pany. Morton and Moore were starred with "The Tik Tok Man of Oz," after closing with which, they divorced themselves from musical comedy and again espoused vaudeville, undertaking the responsibility of supplying comedy up to the top-line standard over the big time. three-fourths of a mile.
